PREPARATION OF LAND FOR PLANTING TEA

In order to ensure a good result, it is necessary to bestow much care on the preparation of planting tea. If it has previously been under forest, the whole of the trees should be cut down, the stumps removed as far as possible (Since many of them are liable to cause root disease in the Tea), and the land hoed carefully all over. If grassland is to be planted, the roots should be carefully removed when the land is being hoed up. If hillsides are to be put out, it is advisable to arrange before planting for terraces, running along the contour of the slopes. If the stones exist in the soil they should be brought to the surface and utilised in making the terraces. On level land the lines of drainage should be arranged, and, when necessary, narrow drains, 3 feet deep, put in before planting out the Tea.

Speaking generally it is not wise to put the plants nearer than 4 feet in any direction, nor wider than 5 feet apart.

Submitted to the Superintendent of Lushai Hills for his kind perusal, and if it is worth for publishing in the "Chanchin Bu" for general information, the annexed translation into Lushai may kindly be ordered to have it indigenously corrected.

The number of kuliawls allowed for upas, thir dongs, puithiam, tlangau and khawchhairs are shown in the list below. The number varies with the number of houses in a village. When the C I, makes out the house list every year, he will ascertain from the chief the names of the upas, thir deng, puithiam, tlangau and khawchhairs and will show them in the house list as having kuliawl. The C I is responsible for seeing that only the exact number of kuliawls allowed for upas and the other village officials are given.

Chiefs are absolutely prohibited from giving any kuliawls whatever on their own authority. They can only nominate the persons who will be given kuliawl according to the rate laid down in the list published herewith. Any chief found giving kuliawls in excess of this rate will be severely punished and will the person who has been given kuliawl. The sale of kuliawls by chiefs is also strictly prohibited and will severely be punished and the purchaser will also be punished.

Chiefs must see that labour demands are distributed as fairly as possible among the villagers liable to coolie labour. It is impossible to lay down definite rules about this as it is obvious that people cannot be sent in strict rotation as exceptions have to be made in cases of illness or for

All khawehhuais must keep a list of the names of persons sent on each occasion that Coolies are demanded from the village. This list will be inspected by touring Officers and the C. I. should inspect it whenever he visits a village and should report if it appears that any particular individual is being sent unduly often or if any other individuals do not appear to have been sent at all.

In future the giving of fowls and eggs or goat or other animals as "Chibabûkna" to Government servants on tour or in Ajal is absolutely prohib

ted Government servants on tour requiring fowls and eggs must indent on the nearest village and pay for what they get. If this order is broken both the giver and receiver will be severely punished. This order is not intended to interfere in any way with the "Ihlen in dun". If a Government servant puts up in a house in a village and a man likes to kill a fowl or anything else and it is eaten a part of the ordinary meal provided there is no objection.

In future the maximum rate at which chiefs can levy fathang from their ordinary villagers is six snowflake kerosine oil tins of unwinnoved paddy heaped up full. A chief can levy fathang at a lower rate if he likes, and where a lower rate exists it is a good thing to continue it, but no

chief may levy at a higher rate than the rate now laid down

Ramhuals will of course continue to give fathung at the usual rate agreed on between them and chief according to custom

As there seems to be some doubt as to what "a plan," has to be done by virtue of the for a n or der is passed to make the matter clear

(1) Hnat'in, to be done for the above

Building and repairing the Z. abuk and Pūm

Building and repairing the School and teacher house Cleaning all jungle in and around the village, cleaning and fencing the water supply. Cleaning inter-village roads and building bridges over rivers crossed by village roads and various other works

- (2) If a chief wants his villagers to help him on other private work he will invite them in the usual way according to custom and those who are ready to work will do so, those who are not willing to do so need not

It is the custom in Lushai villages for all people to help each other and also to help the chief. This is known as "Inpu". This is a very good custom and must not be given up. Villagers should always do all they can to help each other and to help their chief and it is very shameful if people refuse to help others

If a chief and his villagers decide to collect a cash subscription in the village for building a bridge or for any other purpose of public utility in the village, the money collected must be kept with the Khawchhu, who will be jointly responsible with the chief and upes for its safe custody. The Khaw-

STANDING ORDER NO 98 D/25 11-26

In future chiefs must not raise subscriptions from their villagers to build corrugated iron roofed houses. The villagers must however according to custom build the chief a large Lushai house and repair it free of cost.

If a chief wishes to erect a corrugated iron roofed house, he must pay for all the iron and screws etc himself, the villagers will erect it and make the dap, posts etc, according to custom.

No complaints will be considered regarding subscriptions raised prior to the issue of this order.
