Both sides of this coin are covered with Ahom characters. They are a kind of debased Nágarí. On one side is a four-legged animal like the one on the Asám coins. This coin, therefore, is probably a coin of Asám. It is similar to the one given in Marsden, Pl. LIII, No. MCCXXI.

† The "mulzim" (ملزم) Bahádur Sháh was a Gurkhá general who held Náhan in 1227 H. (1812 A. D.) for his master, the Mahárája of Nepál Girván Judh ( گيران جودة ). This coin is therefore most valuable as it gives us the names of both these men. Coin 8845 must have been struck in 1877 Samvat = 1820 A. D.

* These two coins are common in the Panjab, but no one has yet been able to assign them to any country or Raja.

† The name is Chhajú. It may be a coin of Malik Chhajú, the nephew of Balban, who rebelled in the 2nd year of Jalál-nd-dín Firoz, (1291 A. D.).

‡ These two coins were east as is seen from a small bar on the edge of each. They must have been east in rows.
