7. As regards land paying revenue to Government, it Milgureri Register. is essential for the security of the Government revenue, as well as for the maintenance of private rights of property: in the land, that a complete system of registration be devised, and that the Registers be Maintained with accuracy.

For this purpose a Málgúzári Register is prepared for each district, showing the mahals or estates with which a separate settlement has been made, arranged according to tahsíls, parganas, and Patwári's circles. Where more villages than one belong to the same proprietors, separate engagements have ordinarily been taken at the time of settlement for each village, so that the Malguzari Register, though primarily intended to show all estates in the district. serves at the same time as a register of all villages or · townships (mauzás) which are included in it, and in its various revenue sub-divisions. Where more than one estate is included in the same village, the several estates would appear in the Register under the village of which they form part.

The Málgúzári Register should be renewed at suitable intervals, so as to keep the information contained in it up to date. It should be prepared afresh every year, all changes which have taken place since the Register was last formed being incorporated.

This Register is designed to show who are the persons responsible to Government for the payment of the revenue as proprietors or representative headmen, the land. for the revenue of which they are responsible, and the amount of revenue to be paid. Revenue process should be issued, and the collections made máhálwár (according to estates), and not mauzawar (according to villages), i.e., the payments due from one proprietor or body of proprietors should be demanded as one sum; and, where several villages belong to the same proprietor, separate demands should not be made for the revenue assessed on each village. The Málgúzári Register will, therefore, be useful as a guide to the Tahsildar in making his demand and keeping his accounts.

The Register should be prepared by the Tahsildar when he makes up his accounts for the collection of the revenue of the ensuing year. All changes in the disposition of property during the year should be notified by the Collector to the Tahsildar, and should be shown in the following year's Register, where each change must be supported by a reference to the Collector's order which notifies it. No Register of intermediate mutations will be necessary. If, on coming to compile the Register at the commencement of the year, the Tahsildar finds that some changes have taken place which have not been notified to him, it will be his duty them to report them and to await orders, retaining in the Register the old entry with a note of his report.

8. In the Collector's Office there should be for each Cir. 38, 1885. tahsil 14 English Registers corresponding with the first 14 returns appended to the Annual Revenue Administration Report (Circular No. 61). The returns of each tabsil for each year should be entered up in the appropriate Registers under the entries for the preceding year, before the Collector writes his report; that is to say, the entries in these Registers will form the permanent copy of the returns. In this way a continuous record will be kept up, and the Collector, in writing his report, will be able to ascertain easily the extent to which the returns of the year under report differ from those of the previous years. It is on this continuous record and comparison of the results of succeeding years that the chief value of these returns depends. It is much to be regretted that these Registers cannot be so kept as to show in English the data of each assessment circle. But these data of each circle will be always available to Collectors in the Vernacular Registers kept by the Sadr Kánúngo (see paragraph 130 of Part I of the Rules on the Land Revenue Act). The paper used for these records should in every case be durable handlaid foolscap; and the headings, if folded over, should be securely attached to the body of the Registers by slips of cotton cloth.

Cir. 43, 1885.

In the Patwari Rules certain forms of abstract village registers have been prescribed, copies of which will be preserved both by the Village Patwari and by the Land Revenue Act, Part I, paregraph 117.

Tahsil Kanungo. These registers contain all the information that is necessary for the guidance either of the Settlement Officer who assesses the land revenue, or of the District Officer charged with its administration. In the skeleton specimen of village Late-book appended hereto, these registers, 1—9, are arranged in the order most convenient for both of these purposes, and at the end a Section, (10), is provided, in which both the grounds of assessment and subsequent remarks by the Tahsildar or District Officer can be conveniently added.

With the sanction of Government, it is directed that the arrangement of the Tahsíl Kánúngo's copies of the village registers shall always conform to this specimen.

The forms should be lithographed through the agency of the Director of Land Records. The entries in parts 1—5 will be made annually, and those in parts 6—9 whenever a village is attested.

When a village is put under Settlement, its note-book will be translated into English. The entries in parts 1 to 9, when completed to date, will furnish all the assessment data that can usually be necessary; and the rates, estimates and other entries necessary to complete the assessment will be made in part 10.

It is the duty of a Tahsíldár, after the periodical attestation of a village, to make in the Tahsíl Kánúngo's note-book (part 10) brief remarks on its circumstances. And on other occasions also, whenever any event occurs which is likely to affect the prospects of the village, such as are mentioned in Patwari Rules 19 and 20, a brief remark by the Tahsíldár should be recorded in the same place.

How far it may be possible for Collectors to keep up to date the English counterpart of these note-books prepared at Settlement is a point on which, owing to lack of funds, precise orders cannot at present be issued. Nor is it intended that the Collector should add to his English counterpart a translation of every remark that may be recorded in part 10 of the Vernacular village note-book kept in the tahsil. But, whenever the attention of a Collector is called to the circumstances of a village in such a manner as to necessitate enquiry and a reference to the village note-book, he should examine the entries made to date in the Vernacular note-book kept at the tahsil, enter an abstract of the more important ones in part 10 of his English counterpart, and add such other remarks by himself as are suggested by his own enquiries. If no English note-books in the new form have been prepared, these remarks should be entered at the end of the village statement prepared at the last Settlement operations.

If a village is under fluctuating assessment, parts 1, 2 and 3 of the note book should be so amplified as to show the details of the assessment of each year, i. e., if the assessment fluctuates with cultivation, the addition will be to part I, and, if it fluctuate with crops, the addition will be to parts 2 and 3. And the statement giving the total results of the assessment circle (see paragraph 9 below) will be similarly amplified. In such cases particular attention should be paid to the yearly record of sufficient remarks in part 10 of these note-books. These remarks should give such details of the past season as will explain the success or otherwise of the cultivation, and, if recorded with sufficient care for the whole circle, no very lengthy note against each villages will usually be required.

The English note-books should be kept by assessment circles in conveniently sized boxes in charge of the District Kánúngo; the name and number of each village being written on the first page of its books in Vernacular as well as in English. The note-books of a number of villages should not be bound up into one volume; but the statement of each village should form a separate book, being placed in the box of the assessment circle to which it belongs. This box should also contain a map of the assessment circle, a list of the villages contained in it, and statements (in vernacular or English as may be practicable) showing the total figures for the whole circle in the forms prescribed for the annual revenue report. The arrangements for the custody of the Vernacular note-books in the office of the Tahsíl Kánúngo should be of a similar nature.

A Collector or qualified Assistant proceeding on a marching tour for purposes of revenue inspection should take with him the English note-books of the villages which he intends to inspect. If note-books in the form herewith prescribed have not been prepared in English, he should take with him the English village statements prepared at the last Settlement operations. As he enters each tahsi, he should examine, in as many villages as possible, the Patwari's Registers, which, it will be remembered, are identical with those of the village note-book. And if any facts worthy of special notice come under his observation, he should discuss them with the Tahsildar, examine the previous entries in part 10 of the Vernacular note-book kept at the tahsil, and make such entries in part 10 of that note-book and in the English note-book as appear to be called for. The tahsil note-book of a village should not be sent for until reference to it is found necessary, as the Patwari's registers are identical with it, part 10 excepted.

The following are instances of the circumstances which should be especially noted on such occasions:—

Exceptional poverty or wealth in the cultivators or the proprietors; the breaking up of any large areas of village waste; increase or decrease of wells; the action of rivers or torrents; spread of reh or sand; and any special features of the soil or agriculture, whether favorable or otherwise; increase or decrease of population or number of cattle, whether by epidemic disease or from other causes; the character of the zamíndárs and cultivators as agriculturists, and the terms on which they stand to one another; the possibility of improving the village by drainage or irrigation works; the existence of crime; and, in short, any fact that can have an important bearing on the Government revenue or the circumstances of any class of the residents in the village. This book is not meant for the entry of any detailed proceedings which should be recorded separately.

In explanation of the term "qualified assistant" used above, it is directed that the Collector may entrust the duty contemplated in that paragraph to any Assistant Commissioner or Extra Assistant Commissioner of three years' standing and over, who has passed the departmental examination.

Commissioners of Divisions, in their cold weather tours, are requested to examine the English note books at tahsil head-quarters, to see that these instructions are acted up to, and to impress on Tahsildars and all Revenue Officers the importance which Covernment attaches to them. They are the ontcome of much consideration, and are issued pursuant to repeated injunctions of the Local and Supreme Governments. The subject should be specially noticed by Commissioners when forwarding the Annual Revenue Report.

INSTRUCTIONS.

All entries of this nature recorded at past settlements will be first copied.

At future settlements the remarks of the Settlement Officer should be carefully prepared and entered by that Officer himself. They should contain a brief sketch of the capabilities of the estate, of the character of the people, and of the class to which the proprietors belong, and of the ground of the proposed assessment, with such further information of interest bearing upon the condition and capabilities of the village as the Settlement Officer can supply from his personal knowledge. Nothing which obviously appears on the face of the tabular statements need be repeated in the remarks.

The fact of the assessment being in accordance with the rates does not render these remarks unnecessary. They should be such as to show that the Settlement Officer has carefully considered the actual condition of the estate: its former history, its tenure, and whatever in the habits of the proprietors and cultivators affects its prosperity and the prospects of a further development of its resources; and that he has exercised a sound discretion with reference to these circumstances in determining the amount of Government demand.

At the quadrennial attestation, the Tahsíldár, who attests the village, should record such brief remarks as may be called for. The remarks should be arranged under heads corresponding with Statements Nos. 2 to 9, and should conclude with any further general remarks which may be appropriate. He should write very briefly. The Tahsíldár's remarks will be recorded in the Vernacular copy which he keeps at his tahsíl. The Collector's remarks will be recorded in the English copy kept in his office, at such intervals as may be called for by the circumstances of each village.

Whenever the note-book of a village is written up for the first time in the form prescribed, the officer under whose direction it is prepared should see that a sufficient résumé of the remarks previously recorded in the old form of village note-book is incorporated into this part, or that they are copied here in full.
