WAR PRICES AND HOUSE RENTS AT THE END OF 1917.

The tables in this volume have been compiled with a view to show the fluctuations in wholesale and retail prices of certain principal articles of consumption in the ports and in the various provinces throughout India at the end of each year since the outbreak of war, and subsequent to August 1917. House rents in the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and Madras have also been collected to indicate approximately the change in the price of house room in these ports during the same period.

2. The sources of the data are given below each table and are, for prices, mainly the prices current published by Chambers of Commerce, the fortnightly returns published by Local Governments, etc., and for rents, the Collector of Bombay, the Municipality of Karachi, the Administrator General, Bengal, certain land-holders of Calcutta, and the Corporation of Madras.

3. To obtain a measure of the general trend of prices, including the price of house room (house rents), recourse is had to the method of index numbers. A period is selected as the standard (in this case the period immediately preceding the outbreak of the war, July, 1914), and with the prices of this period comparisons are made of prices in subsequent years, the prices being expressed in the different years as percentages of the price of the commodities in the standard or basic period. These index numbers show the rise in prices in the various ports but there is of course a limit to their use. They are mainly the finger posts of the fluctuation in price levels. The general average of the index number is unweighted. These index numbers do not pretend to show the relative prices in different ports or provinces since the articles are, for example, in the case of Calcutta, not entirely the same as those elsewhere, and 100 in the standard period does not accordingly represent the same price in the different markets. The index numbers, however, are extremely valuable in that they show generally, although roughly, the comparative rise in each of the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, Madras, and Rangoon as well as in other markets.

Wholesale Prices.

4. As compared with the pre-war period, July, 1914, the wholesale prices of imported articles show a great leap upwards. In Calcutta, at the end of December, 1917, salt* rose 498 per cent. Metals increased by 188 per cent, cotton manufactures 173 per cent, jute manufactures 112 per cent, raw cotton 149 per cent, sugar* 88 per cent, kerosene oil 53 per cent, coal 160 per cent, shellac 202 per cent, indigo 71 per cent, saltpetre 60 per cent, raw wool 36 per cent, ghee 32 per cent, and hides and skins 10 per cent. Food-grains and oilseeds declined by 8 and 12 per cent, respectively.

The general level of wholesale prices in Calcutta, at the end of December, 1917, was 68 per cent higher than at the outbreak of the war, as against 13 per cent in August, 1915, 26 per cent in August, 1916, and 42 per cent in August, 1917.

5. In Bombay wholesale prices show considerable fluctuations, the most noticeable increases being in metals (393 per cent), turmeric (193 per cent), cotton manufactures (140 per cent), raw cotton (145 per cent), salt (121 per cent), coal (117 per cent), sugar (70 per cent), kerosene oil (52 per cent), ghee (38 per cent), and food-grains (26 per cent). There was a fall of 7 per cent in oilseeds and of 4 per cent in hides and skins.

Wholesale prices in Bombay, at the end of December, 1917, including those of imported articles which have risen considerably on account of the war, were 109 per cent higher than the pre-war level. The rise in August, 1915, was 12 per cent, in August, 1916, 41 per cent, and in August, 1917, 79 per cent.

6. The rise in wholesale prices in Karachi was most noticeable in metals (466 per cent), sugar (106 per cent), cotton manufactures (130 per cent), jute manufactures (54 per cent), coal (56 per cent), kerosene oil (51 per cent), raw wool (36 per cent), and food-grains (24 per cent). There was a fall of 20 per cent in hides and 6 per cent in oilseeds.

* The prices of salt and sugar in Calcutta have since fallen, the index numbers at the end of March, 1918, showing a rise of 407 and 81 per cent respectively, over the pre-war level.

At the end of December, 1917, the wholesale price level in Karachi was 94 per cent higher than the pre-war level, as against 20 per cent in August, 1915, 48 per cent in August, 1916, and 75 per cent in August, 1917.

In Madras.

7. Wholesale prices in Madras show a rise of 111 per cent, mainly on account of the great increase in the prices of metals (468 per cent), cotton manufactures (175 per cent), raw cotton (102 per cent), coal (154 per cent), kerosene oil (47 per cent), salt (100 per cent), and turmeric (212 per cent). Oilseeds also rose by 4 per cent, but there was a fall of 39 per cent in groundnuts, 11 per cent in coconut oil, 5 per cent in food-grains, and 2 per cent in hides and skins.

In Rangoon.

8. In Rangoon wholesale prices rose 43 per cent, owing to a rise in metals (140 per cent), salt (112 per cent), coal (103 per cent), food-grains—pulses (100 per cent), sugar (98 per cent), cotton manufactures (91 per cent), and silk raw (66 per cent). On the other hand, there was a fall of 32 per cent in food-grains—cereals, 36 per cent in oilseeds (groundnut), 21 per cent in coconut oil, and 8 per cent in ghee.

Wholesale prices of wheat at principal markets

9. Table 6 on page 12 shows the wholesale prices of wheat since the outbreak of war at the chief markets in India. The price of this important article of consumption has not, of course, risen as in consuming countries. The chief feature of this table is that the average wholesale price of wheat in the 15 principal markets at the end of December, 1917, was 25 per cent higher than the pre-war level, as against 14 per cent in August, 1915, and one per cent in August, 1917. In August, 1916, it was one per cent below the pre-war level. The highest rise was reported from the Punjab (Ferozepur 50 per cent), and the lowest from Bihar and Orissa (Bhagalpur 7 per cent). Another feature of the table is that the average wholesale price of wheat after three years of war (August, 1917) was only one per cent above the level of the pre-war period.

Wholesale prices in provinces

10. Table 7 on pages 13—17 shows the average wholesale prices of staple food-crops (rice, wheat, barley, jawar, maize, gram, and arhar dal), ghee, raw sugar (gur), and salt in each of the provinces in India since the outbreak of the war.

The percentage fluctuations at the end of the third year of war (August, 1917) and December, 1917, are shown in the following summary table.—

Retail Prices.

Retail prices
in ports

11. The statistics of retail prices have been compiled from the Calcutta Municipal Market Reports for the port of Calcutta, the prices current published by the Director of Agriculture, Bombay, for the ports of Bombay and Karachi, the fortnightly returns of prices furnished by the Board of Revenue, Madras, for the port of Madras, and special returns obtained from the Commissioner of Settlements and Land Records, Burma, for the port of Rangoon. These index numbers are unweighted index numbers, i.e., the articles have been given an equal importance in the general average. Food-grains, however, have been indirectly weighted by more than one kind of a food-grain having been included in the index number. The Indian, unlike the European, is, in the main, if not entirely, a vegetarian, and food-grains, salt, milk, ghee, and vegetables largely enter into his family budget. It will be seen from the tables that the rise in retail prices since the outbreak of war was at the end of December 1917, 21 per cent in Calcutta, 29 per cent in Bombay, and 35 per cent in Karachi. The increase in prices in Bombay and Karachi was approximately the same as that in Calcutta at the end of the third year of war, but the rise from August to December 1917, was 10 per cent in Karachi and 8 per cent in Bombay as compared with one per cent in Calcutta. In Rangoon retail prices rose, as compared with those at the outbreak of war, 17 per cent at the end of December 1917.

12. The retail prices of food-grains were, at the end of December, 1917, 9 Food-grains per cent above the pre-war level in Calcutta, 19 per cent in Bombay, 27 per cent in Karachi, and 11 per cent in Rangoon. The index numbers of retail ^{Salt and other articles.} prices of salt and other staple articles at the end of December, 1917, as compared with the pre-war level, in the five ports, are shown in the following table:—

| — | Calcutta | Bombay | Karachi | Madras | Rangoon |
|---------------------|----------|--------|---------|--------|---------|
| Food-grains-Cereals | 110 | 119 | 128 | 98 | 90 |
| Pulses | 107 | 118 | 117 | 103† | 141 |
| Sugar | 182 | 172 | 200 | 167† | 96 |
| Salt | 300 | 181 | 194 | 177 | 125 |
| Ghee | 150 | 129 | 136 | 97† | 100 |
| Coal† | 260 | 217 | 158 | 254 | 203 |
| Kerosene oil | 144 | 147 | 146 | 147† | 123 |
| Pieccgoods† | 261 | 241 | 217 | 250 | 209 |

The greatest rise in retail prices in the different ports was in salt 200 per cent (Calcutta), sugar 100 per cent (Karachi,) and kerosene oil 47 percent (Bombay).

Freights.

13. Table No. 14 shows the open market rates of maritime freights for certain ^{Freights} staple articles from Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi and Madras. The figures show that the level of freights at the end of December 1917, was from 8 to 27 times the pre-war rate. It should, however, be noted that a considerable proportion of the exports are being carried at "Blue Book" rates which are very much lower than the rates in the open freight market.

House rents.

14. It will be remembered that the Prices Enquiry Committee collected ^{House rents.} statistics of house rents for Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and Madras from 1890 to 1912. These statistics have been brought up to December, 1917, with the assistance of local authorities, both official and non-official.

The net results of the enquiry into house rents are summed up in the following table:—

Variations in house rents as compared with the pre-war year, 1913

| — | 1913 (pre war year) | 1914 | 1915 | 1916 | 1917 |
|------------|---------------------------|------|------|------|------|
| Karachi . | 100 | 114 | 135 | 149 | 111 |
| Madras | 100 | 111 | 113 | 115 | 122 |
| Bombay | 100 | 103 | 107 | 117 | 118 |
| Calcutta . | 100 | 104 | 105 | 106 | 109 |

The fluctuations in house rents in the various wards or divisions of these ports are given in tables Nos. 15 to 19. Rents have increased, as compared with the pre-war rate, chiefly in Karachi and least in Calcutta, the rise in Karachi being 41 per cent, in Madras 22 per cent, in Bombay 18 per cent, and in Calcutta 9 per cent. In Karachi the quarters which show the greatest rise are the ^{In} Karachi.

"Garden" quarter (100 per cent) and Machi Meani (82 per cent). Ranchore comes next with a rise of 69 per cent, Ramswami 59 per cent, Preedy 50 per cent, and Frere Town, Sadar Bazar, Lyari, and Napier between 42 and 46 per cent. In Madras the 20th Division shows the greatest rise (64 per cent). The 10th Division comes next with 52 per cent, and the 6th and 9th Divisions 33 and 38 per cent, respectively. In Bombay Ward G has the highest rise (30 per cent), and Wards D, E, and F, 21 to 24 per cent. In Calcutta Ward No. 8 has the highest figure (38 per cent), and Ward 4 comes next with 15 per cent. Table No. 15 page 24 shows the details of each ward or division.

General Summary and Conclusions.

15. The general conclusions that may be drawn from these tables are :—

- (1) Crudely stated there was a rise in wholesale market prices in Madras 111 per cent, in Bombay 109 per cent, in Karachi 94 per cent, in Calcutta 68 per cent and in Rangoon 43 per cent at the end of December, 1917, as compared with the level at the outbreak of the war (Paragraphs 4 to 8).
- (2) Retail prices (chiefly foodstuffs) in the same period increased 35 per cent in Karachi, 29 per cent in Bombay, 21 per cent in Calcutta, 17 per cent in Rangoon and 13 per cent in Madras.* (Paragraph 11.)
- (3) The rise in wholesale prices was at the end of December 1917 most marked in regard to the following articles :—

| Calcutta | Bombay | Karachi | Madras | Rangoon |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Per cent | Per cent | Per cent | Per cent | Per cent. |
| Salt . . . 498 | Metals . . . 393 | Metals . . . 466 | Metals . . . 468 | Metals . . . 140† |

(4) The rise in retail prices was most marked in regard to the following articles :—

| Calcutta | Bombay | Karachi | Madras | Rangoon |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|-----------------------|---------------|------------------------------|
| Per cent | Per cent | Per cent. | Per cent | Per cent. |
| Salt . . . 200 | Salt . . . 84 | Sugar . . . 100 | Salt . . . 77 | Cotton piece-goods . . . 115 |

| Kerosene oil . . . 44 | Potatoes . . . 34 | Potatoes . . . 44 | | Kerosene oil . . . 23 |

Briefly speaking, Calcutta showed at the end of December, 1917, the greatest rise in salt and ghee, Bombay in milk, tea, and meat, Karachi in sugar, wheat flour, eggs, potatoes, and cereals, and Rangoon in pulses. The retail prices of edible oil, † on the other hand, decreased in all the ports, Bombay showing the greatest decrease (31 per cent).

- (5) The above index numbers, brought up to date, show that the rise in the retail food prices at the end of March 1918, over the pre-war level, was 39 per cent. in Karachi, 30 per cent. in Bombay, 13 per cent. in Calcutta, 8 per cent. in Rangoon and 6 per cent. in Madras. As compared with December 1917, food prices have fallen in Calcutta and Madras, while they have risen in Karachi, Bombay and Rangoon.

* The index number of retail prices in Madras is based on quotations for only a few articles. This should be noted in making comparisons with retail prices at other ports.

† Declared value

‡ Mustard oil in the case of Calcutta, sesamum oil in the case of Rangoon, and coconut oil in the case of the other ports.

The following statistics, compiled from the Labour Gazette of the Ministry of Labour, London, give the latest available information regarding the advance in food prices in countries abroad :—

(6) The greatest rise in house rents at the end of 1917 was in Karachi ^{House rents.} (41 per cent), as compared with the pre-war year (1913). Next comes Madras (22 per cent), followed by Bombay (18 per cent). Calcutta shows the least rise (9 per cent). (Paragraph 14.)

The cardinal fact as regards Indian prices at the present time is that we are dealing mainly with a world problem.

Director of Statistics.

(a) "With regard to the figures for Berlin and Vienna, it must be remembered that these no longer afford any index to the state of supplies and, being based on artificially fixed maximum prices, are not comparable with figures which are mainly based on the prices in a free market. For all the articles enumerated for Berlin, and for most of those for Vienna, consumption is strictly controlled by a system of rationing." The Board of Trade Labour Gazette, January, 1917.

(b) Including fuel and lighting.
