CATALOGUE OF PERIODICALS, NEWSPAPERS & GAZETTES

सत्यमेव जयते

PRINTED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA PRESS, CALCUTTA, INDIA, 1956

PREFACE

This is the first time that a systematic compilation of a catalogue of Periodical publications in European languages has been undertaken in this Library. The catalogue has been divided into three parts, viz. Part I : Periodicals proper, i.e., those with distinctive titles, e.g. 'Indian Review', 'Textile India', 'Harper's Magazine' etc. ; Part II : Serials other than periodicals proper, e.g. Annals, Serial bulletins, Journals, Memoirs, Proceedings, Reports, Transactions of societies, institutions, conferences, etc. [Serials, sponsored and published by the Government and mostly routine or statistical in nature have, however, been excluded] ; and Part III : 'A'. Newspapers, 'B'. Gazettes. A consolidated alphabetical index, containing author, title and subject references, is provided.

The entries have been arranged in the Dewey order (Second Summary) with relevant feature headings but without Dewey notations. The existing 'PP' Call numbers have been retained for facility in servicing this material. The entries have been serially numbered and the number is given in a square bracket on the left at the end of each entry. The feature headings given at the head of each page cover the entries therein and these headings embrace the classes, divisions and subdivisions as they may be applicable. Thus, 'PURE SCIENCE: Astronomy' ; 'SOCIAL SCIENCES. Education, Teaching, etc.'

The holdings of the Library in respect of most of the items being incomplete, an all-out attempt is being made to fill in the lacunae and in certain cases it has been possible to fill in the lacunae before the final print order could be given to the Printers. As such, instead of making a closed entry in case of periodicals that have ceased publication, the entry has been kept open as in the case of periodicals currently received in the Library, recording the number and date of the first issue after the title or subtitle. For example, instead of writing 'Anglo-Indian, v.3-8', the entry has been made thus : 'Anglo-Indian, v.1- , 1880- ', recording the holdings of the Library in the contents note under "Library has :". This method of entry gives the reader an idea of the extent of the complete set.

Annotations have been freely given wherever necessary. The full history of particular newspapers and gazettes having a chequered career has also been given.

Finally, it may be pointed out that very recently certain outstanding scientific and technical periodicals have been subscribed and certain issues of some of these periodicals have started coming. Without waiting for the full year's set entries have been inserted in the Galley Proofs for such items with a note "In Progress."

This catalogue has been compiled by Mr. Benoy Sen Gupta, the Head of the Library's Cataloguing Division I which deals with books & periodicals in the European languages.

Journal and proceedings of the society constituted different series of which the history is as follows :—

A. [First Series] (1). Journal, Vols. 1—73, 1832—1904, [vols. 8—19 called "New Series". Vols. 34—61, 1865—92 each issued in 2 parts; Vols. 62—73, 1893—1904 each in 3 parts.] [No third part was published for Vol. 64, 1895 and Vol. 66, 1897] The proceedings of the Society were included in the Journal upto 1864; from 1865—1904 they were issued separately. In 1905 the "Journal" and the "Proceedings" were combined under title "Journal and Proceedings". Though the old series of the Journal ends with Vol. 73, 1904, the numbering was continued on the parts of a monograph with cover title: "Journal and Proceedings." [First series] (2). Proceedings: vols. 1—40. 1865—1904.

B. New (i.e., Second Series). Journal and Proceedings, vols. 1—30, 1905—34. Combines the two previously separate series "Journal" and "Proceedings", hence called "New Series".

From 1935, the literary and scientific material of the Journal and Proceedings began to be issued in 3 separate parts, each with its own title, page numbering and index under titles, etc., as follows :

C. Third Series (1) Journal of Asiatic Society of Bengal. Letters, vol. 1—, 1935—.

(2) Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal. Science, vol. 1—, 1935—.

(3) Year book of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, vol. 1—, 1935—.

The year book contains the matters previously published in the Proceedings of the Society.

The volume and year numbers of the third series of the Journal are same for the three parts of the Journal.

Royal Asiatic Society, Bombay Branch.

The Society arose out of one started in 1804 by Sir James Mackintosh under the name of the 'Literary Society of Bombay'. In 1829, alliance between this Society and the Royal Asiatic Society of Great Britain and Ireland was effected and the Society was designated, the 'Bombay branch of the Royal Asiatic Society.'

The Society's publication, 'The Transactions of the Literary Society' was first published in 1819. Three volumes of the Transactions were published. They were republished with notes by the Honble Rao Sahib V. N. Mandlik, C.S.I., one of the Vice Presidents of the Society, in 1877.

The Society after its amalgamation with the Royal Asiatic Society ceased to publish its transactions. All the literary contributions it received were sent to the parent society and appeared in the journal of that society. The journal first appeared in 1841[?].

Issued in parts.

The texts, which were at first issued in the Journal, were later issued in a separate series.

The Society was superseded in 1907 by the Indian research society.

Editor: Sarat Chandra Das.

The Society was established in ... 1893. Since then it has occupied itself in making researches into the religious and social literature of the ancient Indian Buddhists found in original Sanskrit works, as also in Pali, Tibetan, Burmese, Siamese, Chinese, Korean and Japanese literature.

Its object is to furnish materials for a history of Indo-Aryan thoughts on Buddhism, as also of a history and geography of ancient India and all Buddhist countries.

International Congress of Orientalists.

Founded at Paris 1873 ; subsequent congresses were held as follows : 2nd, London, 1874 ; 3rd,
St. Petersburg, 1876 ; 4th Florence, 1878 ;
5th, Berlin, 1881 ; 6th, Leyden, 1883 ; 7th,
Vienna, 1886 ; 8th, Stockholm and Christiana, 1889. At the 8th congress there was a division among the members in regard to the method of appointing a place for the next meeting, and in consequence a 9th congress was held in London by each faction, one, Sept. 1st—10th, 1891 (called the Statutory congress) the other, Sept. 5th—12th, 1892. The parties failed to unite for the next congress also, and two 10th congresses were held, one in Lisbon, 1892 (the Statutory congress) the other in Geneva, 1894. At the 11th congress, Paris, 1897, the two branches reunited, and have since continued an unbroken body. The 12th congress was held in Rome, 1899 ; 13th Hamburg, 1902 ; 14th, Algiers, 1905 ; 15th Copenhagen, 1908 ; 16th, Athens, 1912.

Friend of India.

Founded by Carey, Marshman and Ward at Serampore on April 30, 1818. Began as a monthly and eventually became a weekly publication, gaining considerable notoriety during the Mutiny.

In June, 1820 Dr. Marshman, in addition, began the publication of quarterly Friend of India (to give publicity to 'essays on subjects connected with India as must in any way affect the interests of the country').

This publication as well as the monthly journal came to an end in 1827.

The Friend of India (weekly) was started on Jan. 1, 1835.

In April 1875 Robert Knight bought this journal and transferred it to Calcutta. Knight also founded the Statesman in 1875. Both The Statesman and The Friend of India were published independently, when eventually they were merged, both titles being retained. The first joint title was The Friend of India and The Statesman. Later, the joint title was The Statesman and The Friend of India (1884?—). It was incorporated with The Statesman in 1923, when The Statesman began its independent existence.

Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

First settled by British in 1789; the settlement was transferred to Port Cornwallis in 1792 but abandoned in 1796. Port Blair was established as Indian penal settlement by the Government of India in 1858; joined the Nicobar group to form administrative division of Andaman and Nicobar Islands. Japanese forces occupied the Andaman Islands on March 23, 1942. Civil Administration of the islands was resumed on Oct. 8, 1945.

The Andaman Islands are administered by the President of the Republic of India acting through a Chief Commissioner.

Assam.

It first became a British Protectorate at the close of the first Burmese WAR in 1826. In 1832 Cachar was annexed; in 1835 the Jaintia Hills were included in the East India Company's dominions, and in 1839 Upper Assam was annexed to Bengal. In 1874 it was detached from Bengal and made a separate Chief Commissionership. It was again amalgamated with the districts (Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Backergunge, Tippera, Noakhali, Chittagong, The Chittagong Hill tracts, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Rongpur, Bogra, Pabna and Malda) of Bengal and formed the province of Eastern Bengal and Assam. On April, 1, 1912, the districts of Eastern Bengal reunited to Bengal. In Aug., 1947 most of Sylhet dist. was assigned to East Bengal, Pakistan. Manipur State, originally, under the Governor of Assam, became a separate State in 1947. On Jan. 26, 1950, the 25 Khasi Hill States were merged with Assam to be known as Khasi-Jaintia Hill district.

Bihar.

The province contains the two ethnic areas of Bihar and Chota Nagpur. For the purposes of administration it is divided into 4 divisions covering 16 districts. Till 1912 it was included in Bengal; in that year the province of Bihar and Orissa was formed, and in 1936 both became separate provinces. In 1948 the states of Saralkella and Kharsawan merged with Bihar.

Madhya Pradesh.

In 1853 the Maratha Raja of Nagpur died and the territories of the kingdom of Nagpur were declared by Lord Dalhousie to have lapsed to the paramount power. This area was at first administered as the Nagpur province by a commissioner under the Government of India, but in 1861, in the administrative readjustment which followed the Mutiny, it was united to the Saugor and Nerbudda territories and the whole area was named 'the Central Provinces' and placed under a chief commissioner. In 1863 the inability of the Hyderabad state to maintain the Hyderabad contingent led to a treaty by which, in return for their upkeep of the contingent, the districts called 'the Hyderabad Assigned Districts', which comprised the area now known as Berar were assigned to the British. These districts constituted a separate administrative unit until 1902, when the Treaty of Assignment was superseded by a perpetual lease of Berar to the Government of India. The administration of Berar was thereupon transferred to the chief commissioner of the Central Provinces; an agreement concluded with the Nizam on Oct. 24, 1936, recognized and reaffirmed his sovereignty over Berar.

In 1920 the chief commissioner was replaced by a governor, and the province was included in the scheme adumbrated in the Government of India Act, 1935, being constituted an autonomous province on April, 1937. Under the new Constitution of India, which came into being on Jan. 26, 1950, the former province of Central Provinces and Berar became the state of Madhya Pradesh.

Orissa.

Orissa, ceded to the Mahrattas by Aliwardi Khan in 1751, was conquered by the British in 1803. In 1804, a board of 2 commissioners was appointed to administer the province, but in the following year it was designated the district of Cuttack and was placed in charge of a collector, judge and magistrate. In 1823 it was split up into 3 regulation districts of Cuttack, Balasore and Puri, and the non-regulation tributary states which were administered by their own chiefs under the aegis of the British Government. Angul, one of these tributary states, was annexed in 1847, and with the Khondmals, ceded in 1835 by the tributary chief of the Baudh state, constituted a separate non-regulation district. Sambalpur was transferred from the Central Provinces to Orissa in 1905. These districts formed an outlying tract of the Bengal Presidency till 1912, when they were transferred to Bihar, constituting one of its divisions under a commissioner. Orissa was constituted a separate province on April 1, 1936, some portions of the Central Provinces and Madras being transferred to the old Orissa division.

Consequent on the lapse of Paramountcy the Eastern States Residency ceased to function on Aug. 19, 1947. In pursuance of an agreement entered into with the Dominion Government on Dec. 19, 1947, the rulers of 25 Orissa states surrendered all jurisdiction and authority to the Government of India on Jan. 1, 1948, on which date the Provincial Government took over the administration of these areas on behalf of the Government of India. The administration of 2 states, viz., Saraikella and Kharswan, was transferred to the Government of Bihar in May, 1948. By an agreement with the India Government, Mayurbhanj State was finally merged with the province on Jan. 1, 1949. By the States Merger (Governors' Provinces) Order, 1949, the states were completely merged with the State of Orissa on Aug. 19, 1949.

Punjab (India)

British power in the Punjab began with the dissipation by the successors of Ranjit Singh of the power consolidated by him. In 1849 the country was annexed, and placed under a board of administration. In 1853 it was placed under a chief commissioner, and by 1859 the Punjab and the Delhi territory constituted the charge of lieut. Governor. The North-West Frontier area was separated in 1901, and the Delhi province in 1911.

On partition of India in 1947, the eastern part of former Punjab Province acceded to the Indian Union with the area comprising all of Jullundur and Ambala divisions, the entire Amritsar dist. and parts of Gurdaspur and Lahore dists. of Lahore division.

Uttar Pradesh.

Under the Constitution of India, which came into being on Jan. 26, 1950, the name of the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh was changed

In 1833 the then Bengal Presidency was divided into two parts, one of which became the Presidency of Agra. In 1835 the Agra area was styled the North-West Province and placed under a Lieutenant-Governor. The two provinces of Agra and Oudh were placed, in 1877, under one administrator, styled Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Province and Chief Commissioner of Oudh. In 1902 the name was changed to 'United Provinces of Agra and Oudh,' under a Lieutenant-Governor, and the Lieutenant-Governorship was altered to a Governorship in 1921

West Bengal.

In 1699 Bengal was constituted a separate Presidency, and there were Presidents and Governors of Fort William from 1700 to 1774. There were Governors-General of Fort William from 1774 to 1834, who were given powers of superintendence and control over the Presidencies of Fort St. George (Madras) and Bombay. In 1834 the Bengal Presidency was divided into "Agra" & "Fort William in Bengal". In 1874 the Bengal Province was reduced to Bengal proper, Bihar & Orissa. In 1905, a portion of Bengal with the dists., Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Backergunge, Tippera, Noakhali, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Rongpur, Bogura, Pabna and Malda, was detached from Bengal proper and amalgamated with Assam to form a new province, Eastern Bengal and Assam. On April 1, 1912, these districts were again united with Bengal. Till 1912 Bihar and Orissa were included in Bengal and in the same year the Province of Bihar and Orissa was formed.

On the partition of Bengal in 1947 the dists. of East Bengal, consisting of the Chittagong and Dacca Divisions and portions of the Presidency and Rajshahi Divisions, became a part of the Dominion of Pakistan, under the name of East Bengal.

The State of Cooh Bihar was merged with West Bengal in 1950. French Chandernagar also was annexed to West Bengal.
