“ it best to separate himself from his Companions; and he left them without communicating his Intentions to any one. By the Earl of Derby's Directions, he went to Boscobel, a lone House in the Borders of Staffordshire, inhabited by one Penderell, a Farmer. To this Man Charles entrusted himself. The Man had Dignity of Sentiments much above his Condition; and though Death was denounced against all who concealed the King, and a great Reward promised to any one who should betray him, he professed and maintained unshaken Fidelity. He took the Assistance of his four Brothers, equally honourable with himself; and having clothed the King in a Garb like their own, they led him into the neighbouring Wood, put a Bill into his Hand, and pretended to employ themselves in cutting Faggots. Some Nights he lay upon Straw in the House, and fed on such homely Fare as it afforded. For a better Concealment, he mounted upon an Oak, where he sheltered himself among the Leaves and Branches for twenty four Hours. He saw several Soldiers pass by. All of them were intent in Search of the King; and some expressed, in his hearing, their earnest Wishes of seizing him. This Tree was afterwards denominated the Royal Oak; and for many Years was regarded by the Neighbourhood with great Veneration.”—Hume's Hist. of Eng. vol. 7, p. 196—7.

It is 35 m. SW. b. S. from Gloucester, and 113 m. W. from London. The Markets are on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. The Fairs are on the 1st March, and 1st September. This City sends two Members to Parliament; the Sheriffs are the Returning Officers. It was incorporated in the Reign of Henry III., and is now, pursuant to a Charter of Charles II., governed by a Mayor, Recorder, 12 Aldermen, 2 Sheriffs, a Town Clerk, 42 Common Council Men, and other Officers. Previous to its being dissevered from the Counties of Gloucester and Somerset, and made a County of itself, it was reckoned by the Parliamentary Rolls in the County of Somerset. The Tradesmen are divided into thirteen Companies, some of which have spacious Halls; and by a Charter of Queen Elizabeth, every Man who marries the Daughter of a Citizen of Bristol becomes free of the City. Here is a Guildhall, in which the Assizes, and Sessions, are holden. The Mayor, or in his Absence, one of the Aldermen, sits every Day, (except Sunday,) to transact public Business, attended by the Town Clerk, and other proper Officers. Here is a free Grammar School.—“In the North East Suburb of this City, Robert base Son to King Hen. I., and Earl of Gloucester, built a Priory of Benedictine Monks to the Honor of St. James, in the latter End of his Father's, or the Beginning of King Stephen's Reign. This he made a Cell to the Abbey of Tewkesbury, and, as Parcel of the Possessions of that great House, it was granted, 35° Hen. VIII., to Henry Brayne.—“The Calendars, otherwyse caullyd the Gilde or Fraternitie of the Clergy and Commonaltie of Brightstow, was first kept in the Church of the Trinitie, sensat All Hallowes. The Original of it is out of mynd.”—Thus Leland, Itin. vol. vii, p. 94, who there mentions this Fraternity to have been concerned with Robert Earl of Gloucester, Robert fil. Hardingi, and William Earl of Gloucester, all out of a little Book of the Antiquities of the House of the Calendars. The Prior and his Brethren of the College Kalendarum here are mentioned in pat. 34° Ed. III. p. 2, m. 11, and “Domus Calendarum Bristol” was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at £10..18..8 per ann., and there were Pensions paid to some of this Religious Society after the Dissolution.—Robert Fitz Harding, A. D. 1148, Mayor of Bristol, founded, on a rising Ground in the North West Part of this City, a Priory of Black Canons, of which House, as well as of the Order, St. Augustine was the Patron Saint. This was, in the latter End of the Reign of King Henry II., changed into an Abbey, which had, before its Dissolution, yearly Revenues worth £670..13..11 Dugd.; £767..15..3 Speed. King Hen. VIII., A. D. 1548, changed it into a Cathedral, by the Name of the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity; and founded therein a Bishop, Dean, six Secular Canons or Prebendaries, one Archdeacon, six Minor Canons or Priests Vicars, a Deacon and Subdeacon, six lay Clerks, six Choristers, two Grammar Schoolmasters, four Almsmen, &c., who were endowed with the Site, Church, and greatest Part of the Lands of the old Monastery.—Here were two Nunneries, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen, and St. Sepulchre; two Priories, dedicated to St. Philip, and St. Stephen; the several Hospitals of St. Catherine, Gaunts, St. John's, St. Laurence, St. Margaret's, and St. Mary Magdalen; and Houses of the Austin, Black, Grey, and White Friars.—Here are still the ancient Hospitals, called Burton's, Lyons, St. Michael's-Hill, Redcliff-Hill, Temple Gate, Temple Street, and Trinity Hospital.”—*Tanner's Not.
