Mon.*—“The Lordship of Furness, in the North West of Lancashire, and Hundred of Loynesdale, comprehends all that Tract of Land and Islands included within the following Bounds; that is, beginning where the Water descends from Wrinose Hills, in Little Langdale, to Elterwater, which divides Lancashire from Westmorland; so along the said Water to Brathey Bridge, and where it runs into Windermere, and so down the said Mere to Leven Sands into the Sea; thence along the Sea to the Isle of Foulney, including the said Island; so along by the Isles of the Pile of Fondrey and Walney, to the River Dudden, which divides Lancashire from Cumberland, and up to the Spot where the Water of that River comes from Wrinose Hills; and from thence to the Place where the Water descends from Wrinose Hills to the Elterwater, where the Boundary began. Thus Furness is separated by Water from Westmorland, Cumberland, and the rest of Lancashire; and was for that Reason called, by the Abbot, an Island.—The Liberty of the Lordship of Furness extends itself over all the said Tract of Land and Islands called Furness (for a similar Reason as Amounderness was formerly, by the Saxons, called Agmonderness, because it stretches out into the Sea like a Næse, a Promontory, or Ness of Land, between the Rivers Ribble and Cöcar; so Furness, lying to the North of Amounderness, stretching itself between the two Æstuaries of Leven and Dudden in like Manner, received from the Saxons a similar Name,) and all the Lands and Tenements included therein, as well freehold as copyhold, are held either immediately of the Lord of the said Liberty, or of the Lord of some Manor lying within the same, and who holds such Manor of the Lord of the said Liberty.”—West's Antiq. of Furness, p. 142.

It is 104½ m. W. N. W. from London. The Markets are on Wednesday, and Saturday. The Fairs are on the 5th April, 5th July, 28th September, and 28th November. This City sends two Members to Parliament; the Sheriffs are the Returning Officers. It is governed by a Mayor, 12 Aldermen, High Steward, Recorder, two Sheriffs, 26 Common Council Men, a Town Clerk, and other Officers. In this City are the Infirmary and Gaol for the County of Gloucester. The Assizes are always holden here.—“This is generally accounted to have been one of the ancient British Bishops Sees, Eldad being said to have been Bishop of Gloucester, A. D. 490, and Theonus to have been translated from the Bishoprick of Gloucester to the Arch-bishoprick of London, A. D. 553. But this probably ended when the Heathen Saxons over-run this Country about A. D. 570.—Wulphere, the first Christian King of Mercia, is said to have begun, and Ethelred his Brother and Successor (who was afterward Monk and Abbat of Bardney) to have carried on and finished, about the Year of Christ 680, a Monastery here to the Honor of St. Peter; chiefly by the Care of Osric his Nephew, and at that Time his Viceroy in these Parts, but afterward King of Northumberland.

G L O

"There were probably Religious of both Sexes in it, under the Government of an Abbess, and this Church was honored by having three Queens successively presiding over it above ninety Years: after which, by Reason of the civil Wars and other Iniquities of those Times, this Monastery became desolate, and continued so fifty Years, when, about A. D. 823, King Bernulph placed herein Secular Priests, who were turned out and Benedictine Monks put in A. D. 1022, by the Command of King Canute, at the Instigation of Wolstan Bishop of Worcester. His Successor Bishop Aldred, about the Year 1058, new built the Abbey Church in a Place nearer the City than it formerly stood; and, after the Conquest, Abbat Serlo, the Conqueror's Chaplain, much increased the Number of Monks and the Revenues of this Monastery, which amounted, at the Dissolution, to £1946..5..9 per ann. Dugd.; £1550..4..5 ob. Speed. This Church, A. D. 1541, was made one of the new erected Cathedrals of King Hen. VIII. dedicated to the Holy and Undivided Trinity; and the Site, with great Part of the Lands of the Abbey, were granted for the Habitations and Maintenance of the Bishop, a Dean, an Archdeacon, and six Prebendaries, six Minor Canons, six Lay Clerks, eight Choristers, two Masters, &c.—Some of the legendary Writers report that Merwald, Viceroy of the western Part of Mercia, and his Wife Domneva, did, about the Year 660, build a stately Monastery here in Honor of St. Oswald the King and Martyr. It is more certain that, A. D. 909, Ethelred Earl of Mercia, and the famous Elfreda (Daughter of King Alfred,) his Countess, translating the Relicks of that canonized Prince from Bardney to this Place, founded here a Religious House, from whence the Monks being forced to fly in the Danish Wars, it became a College of Secular Priests, which was accounted a Free Chapel Royal, exempt from the Jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Canterbury, or the Bishop of Worcester; but King William Rufus gave it to the Archbishops of York in Lieu of their Claims to Lindesay and some Parts of Lincolnshire, which they quitted to the Bishop of Lincoln. Henry Murdac Archbishop of York, A. D. 1153, placed here Regular Canons of the Order of St. Austin, who continued till the Dissolution, at which Time here were about seven of them, and their Revenues were valued at £90..10..2 ob. per ann. Dugd., Speed. The site was granted, 31<sup>o</sup> Hen. VIII., to John Jennings.—King Henry III. founded in the Parish of St. Nicholas near the West-brigg a Priory or Hospital dedicated to St. Bartholomew, for poor infirm Brothers and Sisters under the Government of a Prior or Master. Here were once maintained fifty-two poor Men; but in Leland's Time it consisted of a Master, three Brethren, and thirty-two poor Men and Women. In Dugdale and Speed's Valuations there are two St. Bartholomew's Hospitals in Gloucester, one rated at £44..7..2 per ann., and the other at £25..11..2, quere. The Site was granted, 6<sup>o</sup> Elizabeth, to the Mayor and Citizens of Gloucester, and is still continued for a Minister, Physician, Master and Surgeon, 24 poor Men, and 30 poor Women, and the Revenues of it are said to be about £500 per ann.—An Hospital dedicated to St. Margaret, in the North Suburb of this City, and in the Parish of St. John Baptist, founded for Lepers before 13<sup>o</sup> Edw. II. Herein are still nine poor Men maintained at 2s. per Week.—Somewhat more by North than St. Margaret's is another poor Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, (Leland's Itin. vol. 4, p. 78,) now commonly called St. James', in St. John Baptist Parish, which maintains 19 poor People at 1s. 6d. per Week, and has a Chapel belonging to it.—Here were also a Priory of Black Canons Augustines; and Houses of the Black, Grey, and White Friars.—Tanner's Not. Mon.—"The North Hamlets join to the City of Gloucester, on the North Side: They lye in the Out-County, and in the Hundred of Dudston and King's Barton, and consist of very rich Meadow and Pastures; 1st., The Vineyard, belonging to the Bishoprick, lying in the Parish of St. Mary de Load; 2d., Walham Mead, Portham Mead, and divers other rich Meadows which lye between Over Bridge and Westgate Bridge, are another Division, accounted amongst the North Hamlets. Some of these Meadows are Extra-Parochial, others lye in the Parishes of St. Mary de Load and St. Catherine, and belong to several Proprietors; 3d., The Castle of Gloucester, with divers adjoining Messuages and Grounds, are Extra-Parochial, and lye close under the Walls of Gloucester, but in the Hundred of Dudston and King's Barton. These three above mentioned Hamlets or Divisions are jointly rated in public Taxes. The other Hamlets are King's Holme, Longford, Twigworth, and Wootton.—The South Hamlets lye on the south Side of the City of Gloucester in the Hundred of Dudston and King's Barton: and being either

Here is the ancient and hospitable Mansion of Craven Ord, Esq. In the 2d vol. plate 7, of the Vetusta Monumenta, published by The Society of Antiquaries of London, there are Views of this Church, drawn in 1748, to which the following Description is subjoined, "The Nave or Body of this Church, which renders it so remarkable, is intirely composed of the Trunks of large Oaks, split and roughly hewed on both Sides. They are set upright, and close to each other; being let into a Sill at the Bottom, and a Plate at the Top, where they are fastened with wooden Pins. This was the whole of the original Fabric, which yet remains intire, tho' much corroded and worn by Length of Time. It is 29 Feet 9 Inches long, 14 Feet wide, and 5 Feet 6 Inches high, on the Sides which supported the primitive Roof. The Inhabitants have a Tradition, that the Corps of a dead King once rested in this Church; which seems to have been founded upon the Accounts given us by some of our old Writers. For in a MS. intituled, Vita et Passio

G R E

"Sti. Edmundi, there is this Passage: A. D. MX. et anno regis ETHELREDI XXX.
 "S. EDMUNDUS propter infestationem TURKILLI, comitis DANORUM, LONDONIAM est ab
 "AILWINO translatus; sed tertio anno sequente ad BEDRICESWORTH est reversus. And soon
 "after it is said: Quidam apud STAPLEFORD hospitio recepit corpus ejus in redeundo de
 "LONDON. And in another MS. cited in the Monasticon, and intitled, Registrum coenobii
 "S. EDMUNDI, it is further added: Idem apud AUNGRE hospitabatur, ubi in ejus memoria
 "lignea capella permanet usque hodie. Now the Parish of Aungre, or Ongar, adjoins to
 "that of Greensted, where this Church is situated. And that the ancient Road from London
 "into Suffolk lay thro' Oldford, Abridge, Stapleford, Greensted, Dunmow, and Clare, we "learn not only from Tradition, but likewise from several Remains of it, which are still visible.
 "It seems not improbable therefore, that this rough and unpolished Fabric was first erected, as "a Sort of Shrine, for the Reception of the Corps of St. Edmund, which in its Return from "London to Bedricesworth, or Bury, as Lydgate sais, was carried in a Chest. And as we "are told by the Register above mentioned, that it remained afterwards in Memory of that
 "Transaction; so it might in Process of Time, with proper Additions made to it, be converted "into a Parish Church. For we find by Newcourt, that Simon Feverell succeeded John
 "Lodet, as Rector of Grinsted juxta Ongar, in 1328. He sais likewise, that Richard de
 "Lucy very probably divided the Parishes of Grinsted and Aungre, and built the Church at
 "Aungre, in the Reign of Henry II., and that those two Churches, which are distant from
 "each other but a Quarter of a Mile, were united in the Reign of Edward VI., but divided
 "again in that of Q. Mary."

The Petty Sessions are holden here. It once sent Members to Parliament.—"Weaver tells us of a Priory here: of Friars aliens Minorites (Dominicans according to Philpot,) belonging to Gaunt, and given afterward to Shene. The Manor of Greenwich did indeed belong to Gaunt, though not by the Gift of King Edw. III., but of more ancient Donation, and was Part of the Endowment of their Cell at Lewsham, and with that was settled upon Shene. Mr. Speed saith, King Edw. III. and Sir John Norbury founded a House of Grey Friars here A. D. 1376, and the Observants that came and fixed in the Chapel of the Holy Cross here, temp. Edw. IV., and were a Branch of the same Order, had an Apartment built for them near the Palace by King Hen. VII. These last were restored by Queen Mary twenty-four Years after they had been suppressed by her Father, but were expelled again by Queen Elizabeth. Whether the former were two distinct Houses, as Weaver, p. 339, is uncertain."—Tanner's Not. Mon.
