SESSIONS.

PREFACE

Since the inception of the Indian Historical Records Commission in March 1919, scholars have been taking a lively interest in records pertaining to the British period in Indian history. At the first session of the Commission held in 1919, members discussed the desirability of reading papers on topics concerning the modern period of Indian history. 1 Pages.
from the next session held in 1920, however, that the regular discussion of papers came to be a special feature of the sessions of the Commission. From that date till 1956 the Commission has met on thirty-two occasions including the current one. 1-27 (iv) Co28-97
It is, hence, evident that a large volume of papers has accumulated to the credit of the Commission during these long years. With a view to help scholars interested in the period under review, and also to prevent duplication of papers which might be read at the sessions of the Commission, I as the Secretary of the Commission, thought it advisable that we should prepare an author-subject index volume covering the period from 1920 to 1956. It is hoped that it will serve the purpose for which it has been got up.

I may add that the papers indexed in this volume refer only to the Indian Historical Records Commission Proceedings volumes beginning with volume II and ending with volume XXXII. The papers read up to the 24th Session of the Commission were printed along with the Proceedings of the each session in single volumes, while papers contributed to the 25th session of the Commission and onwards were printed in separate volumes called "Indian Historical Records Commission Proceedings Volume, Part II".

While preparing this volume, I may regretfully state that we have been handicapped by many factors which are best left unrecorded. I, therefore, crave the indulgence of the scholars who read this volume for all shortcomings in it.

I take this opportunity of thanking Mr. M. L. Ahluwalia, M. A. (Econ.) who has spared no pains in getting this volume ready and bound within the very short time at his disposal.
